On the Subject of Face Recognition

A version of this technology is used by "the government", as well as the "alien dinosaur illuminati", according to sources on Facebook.

The module has a display that cycles through five face images, as well as a text label that displays names. Based on the faces and the names attached to them, press the submit button when the dsiplay is showing the correct face to solve the module.

Each face is shifted by some amount, which may be 0, on each axis relative to the its name in the table below. The correct face is the one whose shift amount is different fom each other face.

Submitting an incorrect face will record a strike and generate a new set of faces and names.
